Dean's Message

Frederick J. Humphrey II, D.O.
Dean of the School of Osteopathic Medicine

My congratulations to each of you, members of the 1989 Class of the UMDNJ-School of Osteopathic Medicine. We have developed a proud tradition of excellence at UMDNJ-SOM in eleven short years with our students consistently scoring at the top among all other osteopathic medical students. The Class of '89 has upheld this standard of excellence.

Today, you witness the new buildings being erected on our Stratford campus. Soon, UMDNJ-SOM will be unified at the one Southern New Jersey site. When you return to your alma mater in the future and see the campus, its buildings nestled conveniently together, you will marvel at how you managed to shuttle between Piscataway and Stratford during your medical education.

You have learned the latest technology and the newest techniques. You have, at your disposal, prevention and treatment modalities that were unheard of, even a generation ago. Pharmaceutical developments and computer technology continues to advance and extend the healing skills you now possess. Your future is bright. Yet, there are new frontiers for you to brave; new challenges to meet. Your challenges include travails such as AIDS, aging, and mental disorders. While new technology empowers you to save and sustain life as never before, you must help your patients enrich the quality of that life, so that it is worth living. You have deposited in your bank of knowledge, sound principles of wellness. Now, in practice, you will build relationships with your patients through trust and two-way communication. Exotic pharmaceutical developments make miracles possible every day. But, remember that no drug can ever take the place of the healing hands of a well-trained, attentive and dedicated physician.

Many new physicians graduate this year; well-schooled and prepared to practice medicine. But, health care in the 21st century will demand a special kind of medicine. Osteopathic medicine. The kind of medicine that has distinguished the osteopathic physician for more than a century. You have been prepared to be the best physician the world has ever known. You have been given the knowledge and skills to successfully pursue the choices you want to make in the future. The challenge is great and the rewards are immeasurable. We are proud of each and every one of you. Best wishes always!

Osteopathic Oath

I do hereby affirm my loyalty to the profession I am about to enter.

I will be mindful always of my great responsibility to preserve the health and life of my patients, to retain confidence and respect both as a physician and a friend who will guard their secrets with scrupulous honor and fidelity, to perform faithfully my professional duties, to employ only those recognizable methods of treatment consistent with good judgement and with my skill and ability, keeping in mind always nature's laws and the body's inherent capacity of recovery.

I will be ever vigilant in aiding the general welfare of the community, sustaining its laws and institutions, not engaging in those practices which will in any way bring shame or discredit upon myself or my profession. I will give no deadly drugs to any, though it be asked of me.

I will endeavor to work in accord with my colleagues in a spirit of progressive cooperation, and never by word or by act cast imputations upon them or their rightful practices.

I will look with respect and esteem upon all those who have taught me my art. To my college I will be loyal and strive always for its best interests and for the interests of the students who will come after me. I will ever be alert to adhere to and develop the principles and practices of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery as taught in this college.

In the presence of this gathering I bind myself to my oath.
